Kirsty Lush is a passionate educator who has spent almost twenty years in the field as a teacher, coach, school principal and university tutor.

Most recently she has worked to support leadership teams and teachers across 25 schools drive improvement while engaging in agile leadership and responsive implementation strategies.

Kirsty believes the purpose of schools is to ensure all students flourish and are successful in contributing to the world around them, and she thrives on collaborating with others to achieve this goal.

How do we ensure St Joseph's School Murray Bridge's teachers and parents are on the same page?

How do we work together to mould young people for today and tomorrow?

How can we use the same strategies to manage behaviour, encourage responsibility, and improve the chances of success?

They seem like outrageously big questions, don't they? And they are... but they do have answers. Unfortunately, too often parents and schools are not on the same page when it comes to answering them.

St Joseph's School Murray Bridge wants to do something about that, and has commenced a partnership with Real Schools to make it happen. But the school can't do it alone. That's why we need you at this critical event in the history of your school and the future of your children.

During the session, we will:

- Tell you all about the Restorative Practices Partnership that the school is embarking on.
- Ask for your input.
- Provide you with strategies to use immediately in your parenting ... the same strategies your teachers are using now.
- Learn how to respond, rather than react, to your child's behaviour.
- Share the best ways to build a meaningful partnership with your school.
